

Photovoltaic Equipment Certification

Photovoltaic Module Testing

Module Testing and Certification	Amount
Certification testing of crystalline PV modules Includes IEC 61215 clauses 10.2, 10.4, 10.5, 10.6, 10.7	$3,000
Certification testing of thin film PV modules Includes IEC 61646 clauses 10.2, 10.4, 10.5, 10.6, 10.7, 10.18	$3,500
Building Integrated PV (BIPV) Modules Includes applicable clauses from IEC 61215 or 61646 standards and special NOCT provisions. (Manufacturer must supply enough modules and hardware to install a minimum 4ft by 4ft array and a 3ft perimeter of the compatible roofing system).	$5,000
Review of Test results from other accredited testing laboratories*	$300
Certification of modules by similarity	$25
Annual Fee to maintain FSEC PV Module Certification	$10

*Testing by other labs requires compliance with FSEC testing standards and operating procedures and appropriate laboratory accreditation

 Guidelines for the definition of similar modules are published on the FSEC website

Photovoltaic System Design Review

System Design Review and Certification	Amount
FSEC PV System Design Review (Requires a submittal of a completed application and all associated documents)	$250/system
FSEC PV System Design Review submitted by Licensed Professional Engineer	$100/system
Design Review for Qualified Similar System	$25/system
Annual Fee to maintain FSEC PV System Certification	$10/system

Similar systems are those which include minor variations that do not significantly affect the design review evaluation process. Additional information is available on the FSEC web site.

FSEC shall reserve the right to make the final determination as to whether submitted PV systems are deemed to be “similar.” To qualify for the “similar systems” fee structure the “similar systems” must be submitted for certification at the same time.

Fees payable to:

Florida Solar Energy Center
Attn: PV Testing and Certification Program
1679 Clearlake Road
Cocoa, FL 32922

For FSEC to conduct other tests, evaluations or administrative actions in a combination not covered by the fee schedule, a fee will be established consistent with the fees listed above.

